Cluster development proposed for Newry Would be first in this area

By ALISON ALOISIO

Newry will soon see its first cluster-style development, if the Red House Farm Village project meets with the approval of the Newry Planning Board. But at least one board member is questioning whether the project qualifies as cluster development.

Designer/manager Carl Hansen of Bethel and primary investor Steve Wight of Newry are teaming up to develop an 18-acre site across from Wight's Sunday River Inn on the Skiway Access Road.

The site is the former Donald Bennett property.

The development will feature up to 17 single-family homes clustered around a common "town green," Hansen said last week.

The clustering village model concentrates the development into a smaller area than does a traditional residential layout. Hansen said the design preserves more natural space while providing common areas for residents to share.

Bear now has WMNF's Hastings Campground to itself

By ALISON ALOISIO

A dumpster-loving bear has forced the closing of Hastings Campground off Route 113 in Bachelors Grant.

The bear has not caused any injuries to people, but White Mountain National Forest officials said they will work with Maine state biologists to try to trap it this weekend.

"The bear will be trapped for the good of both the people and the bear," said Mary Mumford of the WMNF public affairs department. Mumford said the bear has been seen around the campground for about two weeks. If caught, it will be relocated.

She said Forest officials first tried moving campers away from sites near the dumpster. But the bear kept coming back, prompting the closing on Tuesday.

HITTING THE ROAD

Eleven hundred bikers left Sunday River Ski Resort Friday in the eleventh annual "Trek Across Maine -- Sunday River to the Sea." The cyclists pedaled 180 miles to raise money for the American Lung Association of Maine. The trek ended Sunday at the Samoset Resort in Rockport.

Greenwood board will hear late appeal

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Greenwood Board of Appeals has agreed to waive the normal 30-day appeal period in order to consider a variance request for a property on the shore of Twitchell Pond.

On April 3 the town Planning Board unanimously rejected a request from developer Gordon Brown, on behalf of Carlton and Lenora Cole, that the couple be allowed to build a two-story dwelling on a 1.1 acre lot located between the pond and the Greenwood Road.

Following a site review, the planners ruled that there was insufficient setback from the road and the pond.

The Coles then retained the law firm of Kurtz and Hanley, of South Paris, to appeal the decision -- but the letter requesting a Board of Appeals hearing arrived after the 30-day period had expired.

The envelope containing the letter was postmarked May 8 (five days after the deadline), but the letter inside was dated April 28 (five days before the deadline).

The envelope containing the letter was postmarked May 8 (five days after the deadline), but the letter inside was dated April 28 (five days before the deadline). The letter was stamped with the name of attorney Dana Hanley.

Wayne Hakala, chairman of the Board of Appeals, then called Hanley to tell him the appeal request had arrived too late, but that the board would consider a written request to waive the time limit (such a waiver is allowed in the town's shoreland zoning ordinance).

On June 2 Hanley wrote to request such a waiver. He apologized "for any confusion this may have caused your Board," and said his legislative schedule (he is a state senator) limited the time he is able to spend with his secretary.

"It's not a perfect system, where I can see my secretary face to face," Hanley said Tuesday. He also noted the difficulty of serving in a citizens' legislature and maintaining a viable private practice.

At a meeting last week, Board of Appeals members expressed some skepticism about the dating of the original letter, but they agreed to waive the time limit.

"We might as well go ahead and let them have a hearing," Hakala said.

Valuation question

In his original letter Hanley misstated the value of the Coles' lot, claiming that the couple had been paying taxes on a buildable

THE TELSTAR FAITHFUL--Telstar baseball fans sat through a steady rain last week to support the Rebels in their bid for a Western Maine Class C baseball championship. But it wasn't to be, as Telstar lost 6-2 to the Yarmouth Clippers. The Clippers went on to win the state title.

Rebels falter in rain

By ALISON ALOISIO

There was no joy in Mudville, as Telstar's hope of a 1995 baseball championship died on a soggy field at St. Joseph's College.

The Rebels were beaten 6-2 by undefeated Yarmouth last week in the Western Maine Class C championship. Most of the nighttime game in Windham was played in a steady rain.

It was pitcher Tim Remington's only loss of the season. He allowed three walks and only five hits, but the Clippers made them count.

Yarmouth got on the scoreboard first in the second inning when Ben Danosky came home on a wild pitch.

The Rebels tied it in the second when Ken Mason doubled and Jason Berry drove him in with a single.

But then the Clippers' David White and pitcher Matt Shardlow walked to start the third inning. Chris Lord then drove them both in, but was thrown out trying to stretch a single to a double. Jeff Harder followed with a home run over the left field wall, making it 4-1.

The Rebels scored again in the fifth, when pinch runner Kevin Rosenberg came home on a double by Clint Myers.

But 4-2 was as close as it got. The Clippers scored two more runs in the sixth, while Telstar's last seven batters failed to reach base. The Rebels tallied four hits overall.

Coach Bob Remington said Yarmouth seemed to handle the wet conditions better than the Rebels did.

He said Tim Remington had a tough time with a ball that was alternately wet, then dry.

"It's rare for Tim to walk three in a game," said Bob Remington.

The coach told his players after the game that most of them would be back next year, and the experience of the playoff game would help.

"Our year may be coming up," Remington said.

Tribute to seniors

Remington praised the three graduating players who won't be back next year -- Kevin Rosenberg, Peter Miseroch, and Tim Remington.

"Kevin (an outfielder) showed a lot of improvement, where he only played two years.

"Peter worked hard and showed a lot of improvement over four years. He hadn't been the catcher on the middle school team. I told him (recently) I'd take him over every catcher in the league.

"Tim, all things considered, was the best baseball player I've coached. He's not the hitter that Gary Williamson and Rick Roy were, but defensively and pitching, he's the best I've seen," said Remington.

Tim Remington will play for St. Joseph's College in the fall.

Business looking up at private campgrounds

By ALISON ALOISIO

If summer reservations and Memorial Day business are any indication, there should be plenty of happy campers, and campground owners, in the Bethel area this season.

"Our bookings are up from last year. They've been up since February," said owner Bruce Powell of Stony Brook Recreation and Camping in Hanover.

And that was despite the fact that Canadian business was down last year, and expected to be down this year because of the poor exchange rate on the Canadian dollar.

"The economy's better, and there's more to do recreationally in this area, like mountain biking and river sports. The area has also done more publicity to bring people in, and that's helped," he said.

Powell said the bulk of his business has traditionally been from one- or two-night campers, many of whom see his sign on Route 2 and stop.

Francis Berry of Lone Pine Camping in Newry said his area was full on Memorial Day for the first time in its 27-year history.

"It's the first time we had to put out the 'No Vacancy' sign," he said.

Berry, too, lost some Canadian business last year, but he's hopeful more will return this season.

Campers staying closer to home

Camping is growing in popularity, and more northern New England campers are staying closer to home. For those reasons, Francis and Barbara Dumont of the Pleasant River Motel in West Bethel are re-opening the campground on their property. It's been closed for three years.

"There's been more of a trend toward camping, rather than staying in motels. More Maine people are staying in Maine, and there are a lot of northern New England campers," Barbara Dumont said.

Bethel OKs sign regs, spending

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel voters were in an agreeable mood last Wednesday, easily passing all 32 articles on this year's Town Meeting warrant.

There was little discussion of the articles making up the coming year's municipal budget of $1.3 million, and voters also agreed to four citizen-initiated articles that called for the town to contribute to social service organizations.

All such social-service funding had been cut this year by the Board of Selectmen and Budget Committee, due largely to increasing requests for funds and the reluctance of board members to make the choices between agencies.

Four agencies petitioned to be placed on the warrant, including Community Concepts ($2,090), the Child Abuse and Neglect Prevention Council ($480), the Western Area Agency on Aging ($1,733), and Androscoggin Home Health Services ($2,096).

Prior to the vote, selectman Dutch Dresser told the voters that while the boards had voted against funding the organizations, it would be "absolutely appropriate" for the voters present to decide they wanted the town to make contributions.

They did, and each article passed easily.

GULLY STARTS TOWARD POND--High on a steep hillside next to South Pond, erosion from a logging operation continues. Under orders from the state Department of Environmental Protection, logger Jerome Holt has taken a number of steps to contain the erosion at lower elevations on the job site, but Greenwood officials say they are continuing to monitor the situation and that further action may be undertaken to control the erosion -- which brings with it the possibility of phosphorus pollution of the lake.

ANOTHER "TAKING" BLASTED

To the Editor:

At the June 12 hearing on the taking of private property by eminent domain for the ultimate benefit of the Bethel Station developers, the Bethel citizens shouted a resounding "No." John Laban and Don Feeney made it clear that the power of the state to take private property is limited to those cases where an urgent public need has been demonstrated, and where the action is one of last resort. The citizens were quick to recognize that the need was private, not public, and the issue of last resort hardly applied. Shame to the MDOT for being part of such a scam.

But at Town Meeting on June 14 when Articles 11-14 came up, the taking of private property, in this case voter's money through the government power of taxation, for the benefit of private organizations, Androscoggin Home Health, etc., the voters and their elected officials missed the similarity. Pleas of worthiness aside, is it a legitimate function of government to expend public funds for the benefit of private persons or organizations?

The selectmen recommended that these private agencies not be funded with taxpayer dollars, uncomfortable with the idea but perhaps not sure just why. Consider the federal government. It funds the Office of the Surgeon General, HEW, and HUD because these are government (public) agencies. It does not fund the American Cancer Society, Joslin Diabetes Center, the Salvation Army, or National Audubon. These are private organizations funded by private people and foundations through free will donations. Taxing the people for their support would be an illegitimate use of government power.

Community Concepts, Child Abuse and Neglect Prevention Council, Western Area Agency on Aging, and Androscoggin Home Health Services are private agencies that deserve generous support through private contributions. $10 apiece from each voter at the Town Meeting to each of the agencies would provide funding in a legal and proper manner. But as private agencies they cannot be funded through taxation. Likewise, some of the items under Article 10 of the warrant.

Town officials erred in placing these articles on the warrant. The taking of private property, be it land or dollars, for the benefit of private agencies, be they developers or charities, is not a legitimate function of government at any level.

TALKING ABOUT EMINENT DOMAIN

To the Editor:

After attending the rather heated meeting regarding the assumption of private land by the Bethel station group by eminent domain I have to say that I am a bit confused.

I am a bit confused because I heard that on the one hand that the developers were saying that they had to pay for land that they had already purchased with their own funds and, on the other hand that the town was saying that they were not paying for the land and that the developers were just taking it. And what do you know. We all know that the town is not paying for the land but I am not sure if that is the only way to get the land. I am not sure if that is the only way to get the land. I am not sure if that is the only way to get the land.

I am not sure if that is the only way to get the land. I am not sure if that is the only way to get the land. I am not sure if that is the only way to get the land. I am not sure if that is the only way to get the land. I am not sure if that is the only way to get the land.

I am not sure if that is the only way to get the land. I am not sure if that is the only way to get the land. I am not sure if that is the only way to get the land. I am not sure if that is the only way to get the land. I am not sure if that is the only way to get the land.

THANKS FOR ART SUPPORT

To the Editor:

My work of teaching art in this community has been supported in many very significant ways recently that I would like to acknowledge.

Frene and Chad McGrew of Bethel Frames have framed and installed, at cost, three major works of art created by SAD44 students. One painting hangs permanently in the Andover School, and the other two are permanent installations at the new Crescent Park School and were part of the Student Art Exhibit on June 3 through 9. For the third year in a row, I want to thank Robin Zinehuk of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce for featuring my spring exhibit of the Explorations Art Program at the Chamber Awards Banquet. My thanks to Kara Davis and Charlie Sullivan of the Summit Hotel as well. There have also been numerous parent volunteers, far too many to list, who have helped in a myriad of ways, and I thank each of them as well.

As I begin my tenth year in this community, I continue to be touched by the spirit of support and the true sense of "community."

Corrections: Last week's Moses Mason column was in error on the location of Edward P. Lyon's Store in 1955. It was relocated from the Cole Block to Warren Bean's store (Bethel Main Gas) in the Hastings Block (now the site of the Bethel Savings Bank) in 1946, and in 1953 it was moved to what is now the Keenan building at the corner of Church and Main streets. Also, in 40 years ago: it should have been Pfc. Geraldine Galvin.

LOUISE LINCOLN HONORED—The Maine Legislature and the National Foundation for Women Legislators celebrated on June 8 the 100th anniversary of the first woman to serve in a state legislature. One hundred years ago Clara Cressingham, Carrie C. Holly and Frances S. Klock of Colorado became the first women to serve as state legislators. Women were granted the universal right to vote in 1920. Two years later Dora Pinkham, a Republican from Fort Kent, became the first woman to serve as a member of the Maine House and Senate. At the recent festivities in Augusta, E. Louise Lincoln, who served in the House of Representatives from her election in 1960 until her retirement in 1973 received special recognition. She also served as Clerk of the Maine House from 1973 to 1975. At a reception at the Blaine House hosted by Mary Herman, Maine First Lady, and in a ceremony at the House of Representatives, Lincoln was honored for her service in the days when there were few women in the Maine Legislature. Bethel has sent four women to the Maine House, Democrat Florence Thurston in 1937, Republican E. Louise Lincoln in 1961, Democrat Emily Saunders in 1975 and Republican Karen Brown-Mohr in 1977, who at age 22 was the youngest state legislator in the country. Lincoln (center) is pictured here with former state Rep. Karen Brown-Mohr and current Rep. Al Barth (R-Bethel).

WONDERFUL SNOW WHITE

To the Editor:

Before I moved to Bethel last year I was told that the arts were very much alive here and special emphasis was placed on the children of the community through different organizations. I can now say that I agree that after spending a very enjoyable evening watching the Children's Dance Theater of Bethel present their version of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" under the direction of Susan Clement Farrar on Friday evening, June 16, at Telstar. For two and a half hours I watched in amazement as several dozen dancers and actors from age 4 to 17 gracefully made their way across the stage and remained in character. Most impressive of all was the fact Miss Sue was able to make every single character a shining star, even if just for a brief moment.

The very lovely Snow White was played by Lydia Grover, who has been dancing almost every year since she was 5 years old. Her serene portrayal of Snow White was a delight to watch. She was still smiling that sweet smile after the show as she told me her favorite scene was with the Seven Dwarfs. Well no wonder, all seven were adorable, and very funny as they lip synched through the production.

The Wicked Queen was played to evil perfection by the talented Amy Howe, who has been dancing with Miss Sue and her daughter for the last 14 years. She obviously loved being very sinister and her favorite scene was the Magic Chamber Trial Dance.

The Tribal Dance and the Jam Production were among many of the dancers' favorite scenes, with their choreographed intricate hand movements and dance steps. I really can't say what my favorite scene was, for they all had special moments, right down to the littlest singing Bees, Bunnies, Birds, and Butterflies.

At curtain call, Miss Sue presented special awards to her three graduating seniors: the Prince, Aaron Paul, the Wicked Queen, Amy Howe, and dancer and assistant stage manager, Quint Stockwell. Congratulations must also go to the many people behind the scenes helping to make things go smoothly and the clever set designs of Tom McGinniss. In an after-production interview, Miss Sue said, "I don't even finish a show before I'm cracked. What are you going to do next year?" It's not an easy decision. There's no script for these productions. It has to be put together from a basic story line and built around the talent available being sure that there is something special for everyone. No easy task. But I love what I do and when it works, like it did this year, I can only hope it has made happy memories.

I'm sure it did, Miss Sue.

Bethel meeting

Voters also agreed to citizen-initiated articles calling for installing street lights on Kilbourn Street and Lover's Lane -- although there was some laughter over the appropriateness of lighting Lover's Lane.

Voters also overwhelmingly approved a revised sign ordinance for the town. Of the well over 100 voters at the meeting, only two -- selectman Rick Whitney and Pleasant River Motel owner Francis Dumont voted against the revision.

Thurston and Grover elected.

In the election of town officials on Tuesday, incumbent selectman John Thurston was reelected, with 272 votes. And Ruth Grover defeated Jane Lowe, by a margin of 260 to 193, for the second open selectman's position.

Incumbent school director Merton Brown was reelected (381 votes) and newcomer Linda Gamble (300 votes) was unopposed for the second open seat.

Art Gilbert, who retired from the Board of Selectmen, was elected to another term as assessor (342 votes). Former assessor Stan Howe agreed to fill the second assessors position, after receiving five write-in votes (50 more write-in votes for Howe were invalidated due to a technicality).

At a Board of Selectmen's meeting following Town Meeting, Bob Chaddbourne was elected chairman and Rick Whitney, vice chairman.

Clusters

"The farmhouse there now will be a focal point. It will be a farm, with animals, walking paths, a common garden space, composting, a play area for kids, and aquaculture in a pond (to be stocked with trout)," he said. Cross country ski trails will also be included. The forest, pond, and brook on the site will demonstrate the various aspects of rural Maine, said Hansen.

He said that he and Wight want to produce a model of what they consider to be wise use of land.

Wight sees the project as a throwback to the mid-1800's, when villages were clustered to preserve fields for agriculture.

He said modern attempts to control over development by requiring minimum lot sizes had resulted in inefficient use of land. He hopes the project can serve as a state-wide model of cluster planning.

The developers plan to offer a pre-construction package to prospective buyers, in which the buyer would purchase a basic core home and then add to it from a "menu" of extra features, such as a great room or a garage. Hansen also said an addition could be purchased after the basic house was built.

An owners' association would arrange for maintenance of roads, lawn mowing, etc.

Hansen expects the project will appeal to skier families who want a second home, but don't want the responsibility of full maintenance.

He said the project is half experiment, half investment.

"I've dreamed for 10 years about doing something like this."

"If profit were the whole motivation, we would have built 36 condominiums on the property. But this is a chance to demonstrate good use of land," he said.

Hansen said the Newry Planning Board has voted to accept the project as a cluster development, and work will begin as soon as the development's application is approved. He hopes to have the road, a pond, and a model home in place by winter.

Ordinance vague

The development is the first test of the cluster development section of Newry's unified development review ordinance, adopted in 1992. Ambiguities are making it difficult for the Planning Board to interpret and apply the rules to the project.

Newry is divided into two districts -- rural development and general development. The Red House project is located in the general district. But the cluster development definition pertinent to the general district is vague, saying only that with clustering "densities are increased above those normally required, in return for the provision of permanent open space owned in common."

The rural district guidelines give more direction, implying a cluster has 90 percent of the developed area in 25 percent of the property.

Though the board as a whole voted to accept the project as a cluster development, member Cindy Brown felt the 90/25 definition should be applied, and she said the proposal doesn't meet the test.

"I have no problem with the project. They're doing a nice job. But the idea of clustering is to leave a significant portion undisturbed, and that's not the case in this project," she said. Brown said she had not calculated exact percentages of developed and undeveloped acreage.

According to Hansen, only 11 percent of the property will be developed, and that includes houses, the road, the septic system, the pond, and cross country trails.

Brown said in theory there is nothing to prohibit the development as it is, regardless of its definition, since it falls in the general district.

She said having the project accepted as a cluster development is an advantage for Hansen and Wight. The board can waive some setback and dimension requirements, and the road requirements would be more lenient. She also said it would help the developers with marketing.

Brown said she hopes the ordinance can be revised in order to be more easily interpreted.

shorefront lot with an assessed value of $51,855.

But according to town tax collector Phyllis Coolidge, the Coles were never taxed for a buildable lot, and following the town's recent revaluation they successfully sought an abatement, arguing that the lot in question was agricultural and non-buildable.

The lot is currently assessed at $12,965, Coolidge said. Hanley, however, provided The Citizen with tax bills from 1989 to 1993 that showed the Coles' lot to have been valued at $36,000.

The Board of Appeals will meet on the variance request Friday, July 7, at 9 a.m. in the Town Office.

I had a graduation party at my house last Friday. Guests included

Lloyd Davis and Sue Silver are helping Lee and Emma Billings get in their wood this week.
I attended my orientation at the University of Hartford over the weekend. Everything went smoothly and my family enjoyed the drive.
Tammy Billings has received word that her brother Jeff and his wife Tammy are the proud parents of a second child, a son named Robert Sterling. The child's grandparents, Sterling and Irene Mills of Rumford Avenue, are understandably ecstatic.
Joelle Silver got in a bicycle accident recently. Luckily, her head-on collision with a tree left no injuries and she's back on the road.
Allison Chapman will be coming home for a visit soon.

That's it from North Woodstock this week.

West Paris

Mr. and Mrs. Vance Bacon celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary at a party given by their son, Ken and daughter, Kathy Bessett at the West Paris Grange Hall on Saturday, June 3. Friends and relatives joined them to make it a joyous occasion. Balloons, floral arrangements and a pretty cake decorated the hall. Guests attended from Rumford, Lewiston, Auburn, Lisbon Falls, Poland, Oxford, Greenwood, Vermont and West Paris.
On Sunday, June 4, the Bacons renewed their marriage vows at St. Catherine's Church in Norway, with their original attendants at their side. The couple's three grandchildren, Emily, Marc and Timothy from Fairfax, Vt. were present.
Gary and Lisa Latno, Ben and Roman spent last Saturday with Lisa's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brocato in Buxton and Sunday with Gary's mother, Lillian Latno in Old Orchard. Sunday afternoon they attended graduation of Gary's nephew at Old Orchard Beach High School. Robert and Bonita Daoust of Vero Beach, Fla. spent the weekend with her mother, Ruth Hazelton and daughter, Melissa Vining. They attended Melissa's graduation.

The flowering plants that are adorning the West Paris library lawn were given by Lee and Dottie Farrar and Young's Florist.
On Saturday, June 24, there will be a food and rummage sale at Goodwill Hall of the Universalist Church from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.
Forward Fellowship will have a potluck supper and meeting on Monday, June 26, at the home of Peg Perham.
Carmen Hadley Honored: A surprise birthday party was held Saturday evening, June 10, for Carmen Hadley at the home of Dan and Brenda Jeselskis in Buckfield.
There were 65 friends and relatives to help her celebrate her 50 years of life and to wish her many more years to come.
Two short skits by five Hadley girls were entertaining, also people recalled comical incidents they enjoyed with Carmen over the years. Several told all how special she is to them.
There were many cards and gifts, delicious refreshments and a birthday cake made by Brenda Jeselskis, cousin of the honoree. It was a very happy evening for Carmen and all those who attended.

Howdy, folks. This is Tuesday morning, the 13th day of June, and it now seems that we may possibly see a little sunshine today. It will surely be a welcomed sight here after the cloudy, rainy weather of the past few days.

Last Tuesday evening, we attended Oxford Pomona Grange, as it was hosted by Alder River Grange in East Bethel. We had a fair turnout of members and we all enjoyed a nice supper, mostly furnished by Alder River Grange. This meeting was our election of officers, and most of the current officers will serve for the next year, but I chose not to take the office of master again and will be replaced, in September, by Raymond Tripp of Norway. I will be overseer.
Our company Wednesday evening was sister Laura Hutchins and her granddaughter Mandy Cobb and their dog Daisy May from East Andover. Richard Felt from Bryant Pond also called.

Our nephew, David Yates, on Tuesday evening removed the pine tree that came down onto our mobile home, and Peggy and I got the final mess cleaned up Thursday. It sure seems nice to have that tree gone as well as two other trees that he cut down. None of them were very healthy and we had fears of their coming down.
Our visitors on Friday were Myrna and Bernard White from Auburn. Whitey came up to mow our lawns for his mother-in-law. We surely appreciate having him come to mow the lawns.

Allan Lovejoy, the grandson of Mary and Archie Lovejoy, was one of those that graduated from Oxford Hills High School on Saturday.
Franklin Lovejoy, who now works in Massachusetts, spent the weekend with Mary and Archie Lovejoy and attended the graduation.
David Small from Kennebunk was also at the Lovejoy home on Saturday and attended the graduation at Oxford Hills High School.
Mary Lovejoy and Kathleen Holden were in Locke Mills for shopping one day.
There will be a dance at the Locke Mills Town Hall on June 24, with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra -- old-time music for old-time dancing and old-time fun.
Ants and ticks are plentiful this year. If they don't get me down, I'll be back with more news next week.

NOVA WOOD HARVESTING/FORESTRY PROGRAM students last week closed down a logging site in the White Mountain National Forest in Gilead, near Pooh Corner Farm. NOVA has been working the site off and on for two years, according to instructor Charles Haegle. The closing-down process included creating water bars to prevent erosion, seeding, and mulching of the site. "We try to make it as attractive as you can make a logging site look," Haegle said. The project was undertaken with the cooperation of White Mountain National Forest forester Craig Young. "They've been doing a great job. We have a hard time getting professional loggers to come in who have a good idea of what they're supposed to be doing when they arrive," he said. "We need more people coming into the trade who are skilled." Young said the section of forest was overmature, and some trees needed to be removed for its overall health. He said the goal of the project was to leave trees of varying age groups, which will attract more wildlife. Here, Chad Frisbie of Mountain Valley High School uses a bulldozer to create a waterbar. Nine Mountain Valley students participated in closing down the site.

HOME REPAIR PROGRAM

Maine State Housing Authority through a joint effort with the Maine Municipal Bond Bank has implemented a new program called FIX ME and has made $337,000 available to Community Concepts, Inc., for the repair and upgrade of single family owner-occupied homes.

Dexter Akers, associate director of Housing, and Dana Stevens, housing rehab manager, praised the new program. Dexter said, "This new program is a loan program designed for people that may not be able to afford a regular bank loan. The interest may be as low as one percent for qualified homeowners. The maximum amount of any loan will be $15,000 and the minimum payment will be $25 per month."

Mr. Akers added, "This is not the typical bank loan. Community Concepts will deliver the loan and work with the homeowner throughout the whole process. Eligible homeowners will help decide what repairs need to be done and will be able to pick a contractor of their choice. All work will be done by contractors. We have set a goal of upgrading 80 homes by March 31, 1996. We think this is a very realistic goal."

The type of work that can be done is septic and water systems, electrical, plumbing, roofs, windows, doors, siding, structural problems, handicap accessible needs, insulation and other energy conservation related improvements. Coordination between the FIX ME program and other programs at Community Concepts will allow homeowners the possibility of access to other programs such as the Central Heating Improvement Program (CHIP) and the Weatherization program.

Mr. Stevens said, "The average loan will be about $7,500 per homeowner. Also, this program is operating on a first-come, first-served basis. So call Community Concepts at 743-7716, ext. 104 and speak to Ruby Foster immediately for additional information on this new program."

Community Concepts, Inc., is a private, nonprofit community action agency incorporated in 1965 with an all volunteer Board of Directors. The agency's mission is "to coordinate, collaborate, and to focus resources to help people in need build opportunities for a better tomorrow."

CLASSIC DRESSAGE—Riding instructor and horse trainer DIANE Leighton of Albany has been chosen to participate in United States Dressage Federation (USDF) testing in Hartford, Conn., later this month. Leighton is one of two riders chosen from Maine. The testing will be a step toward what Leighton hopes will be her eventual USDF certification as a dressage instructor. "There are only two certified instructors in Maine now," Leighton said. Dressage teaches horse and rider balance and self-carriage, a foundation to any style of riding. "Getting certified would really validate me as an instructor," Leighton said. She said while there are a lot of people who teach riding, many don't know the best instruction methods, resulting in both horses and riders learning bad habits. "People spend a lot of money getting bad information," she said. Leighton lives and gives lessons at Deepwood Farm in Albany. She offers dressage training, training of young horses and re-schooling of older ones, driving, and boarding. Here, Leighton puts her six-year-old Anglo-Trakheiser horse Albany Danube (Dan) through his paces. Dan was high point horse of the day at the June 4 Ellis River Riders Show. He will be her mount for the Hartford event. "You're fortunate to have one good horse in a lifetime. He's that for me," Leighton said of Dan.

News from the

The Bethel Library

The staff, trustees and patrons of the Bethel Library will all greatly miss Monique Rolfe. For 14 years she worked at the circulation desk, typed and filed cards for thousands of books and volunteered (until 1992) on Thursday mornings to help out at the desk during Story Hour. We all enjoyed her helpful, friendly manner and her delightful French accent. Saturdays at the library will not be the same without her.

Summer children's activities at the library are underway. All elementary school children (and preschoolers, too) may come in and pick up summer reading forms. Thanks to Arla Patch for helping with the display on the IGA window. All participants in the program will have a "baseball" with their name on it to attach to the "diamond," after they pick up their forms and begin their reading.

The special events for the summer are as follows:

Field games, Tuesday, June 20, (Wednesday, June 21, raindate) 10-11 a.m., for kids of all ages; Magic Talent Show, Monday, June 26, 10-11 a.m., open to kids of all ages, refreshments will be served, call the library if you would like to perform some tricks; Storybook Character Parade, Thursday, July 16, 11 to noon, rain or shine, for preschoolers; Detective Party, Tuesday, July 11, 10-11 a.m., planned for school age children. Please sign up at the library. There is a detailed listing of these events at the circulation desk at the library. Please pick up a list or call the library for more information.

Richardson Lakes book goes to press

The text of the Bethel Historical Society's latest publication project, "The Richardson Lakes: Jewels in The Rangeley Chain" by Herbert P. Shirreffs and edited by Randall H. Bennett, curator of collections at the society, has now gone to Berlin, N.H., where it will be printed by Smith and Town Printers.

Editor Bennett is now surveying the illustrations and writing the more than 200 captions to accompany the text and complete the book.

A 30-year labor of love, Herbert Shirreffs' book traces the colorful and neglected history of a portion of the Rangeley Lakes' region of northwestern Maine. In several hundred pages of text and numerous photos, engravings and maps, the late Mr. Shirreffs tells the story of the Richardson Lakes area from its earliest days.

Such topics as Indians, camps, fishing, logging, hunting, and boating abound in this book.

For those interested in steamboat travel, there is a special treat. The Richardson-Rangeley Lakes Transportation Co. started regular service on the Richardsons in the late 1870s. Incorporated in the early 1880s, it was later known as the Androscoggin Lakes Transportation Co., which once owned Angler's Retreat (now Lakewood Camps) at Middle Dam and the Lakeview Cottage at South Arm.

The book includes a great deal of information on the steamboats in the Upper Dam area between Mooselookmeguntic Lake and Upper Richardson.

The book also brings to light long-forgotten writings by people, who explored, worked and played in what was once known as the "Androscoggin Lakes" region of Maine. The book contains valuable information and rare photographs never before published, thanks in part to the generosity of many people who have had lifelong connections with one of the most scenic areas of northern New England. The book is expected to be out in the fall.

For those who wish to take advantage of pre-publication savings of up to $10 per book, orders should be received as soon as possible. Hardcover copies are available at pre-publication prices at $29.95 plus applicable Maine sales tax. Soft-cover books are being offered at pre-publication prices of $22.95 plus sales tax if applicable. The prices after publication will be $39.95 for hardcover copies and $29.95 for paperback. The shipping charge is $3 for the first copy and $1 for every additional copy sent to the same address.

The book will be approximately six-by-nine inches, 450 pages, 200 illustrations, and will have a large folded map in the pocket. Orders should be directed to the Bethel Historical Society, P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Maine 04217-0012.

Rotary Club notes:

Reflections from the Bethel Rotary Club's past month include many exciting and educational happenings, beginning with the week-long trip of six of the club's members to Northern Ireland. Four educators from the club represented our area instigating and investigating an international exchange.

Weekly meeting programs included Nancy Murphy of the Northern Oxford Even Start Program, a federally-funded organization in its third year of a four-year grant, promoting family literacy in our area; Tom Caron, the "Voice of the Portland Pirates," who spoke to the club of pro sports in Maine and the life and popularity of minor league sports; Brian Stowell, the new coordinator for The Regional Partnership, educating the community in the prevention of drug abuse in the Bethel area; and Don Bean, the new director for Project Graduation, who discussed skyrocketing college expenses and the importance of the community's support toward the area's young people's education.

At the monthly Board of Directors' meeting, plans were discussed for the club's participation in Mollycodd Day, including the annual auction Friday, July 14, at Telstar High School, the food booth on the common on Saturday, and the plans to participate with a Rotary float in the Mollycodd Day Parade. Upcoming project updates included the restoration and placement on the common of the Bethel Historical Society's watering trough, and the completion and distribution of the Community Service's Family Directory project. The board approved expenditures to co-sponsor (with the Rumford Rotary Club) a cub scout for a week-long day camp through the Pine Tree Council Boy Scouts of America; Project Graduation, and to the Oklahoma City Rotary Foundation Disaster Relief Fund. The board accepted the proposal and the guidelines of the club's membership procedures committee and agreed to cancel the regularly scheduled Tuesday meeting on the 4th of July.

The Bethel Rotary Club regretfully acknowledges the passing of a fellow Rotarian and good friend, Heywood Sawyer.

Bethel senior citizens meet

Bethel Senior Citizens Club met June 14 at Shorelands in Harrison with 90 present.

President Helen Saunders conducted the business meeting. Reports were read and recognition given to Rudy and Joann Royer for their efforts on the fundraising. Notes were read from Charter Members Sarah Stevens and Barbara Douglass.

A moment of silence was observed for the passing of Monique Rolfe and Heywood Sawyer.

Lindley Wieden had several anecdotes to offer and announced final plans for the bus trip to Newfield on June 21. Two busses will leave the Health Center at 7:30 a.m. There will be no stops so passengers may want to take a snack. Lunch will be around $6.

Wieden urged the folks to attend the Town Meeting that evening and to support the social programs that are in jeopardy: meals, bus transportation, Community Concepts and Western Area Agency on Aging.

Document locators were available through the efforts of Barbara Mahlor.

A clothes rack from Melburn Hutchins was raffled and won by Geraldine Howe. Wilma Gorman won the door prize and the Silver Saver prize was won by Mary Paine.

Birthdays celebrated were Honey Bailey, Florence Briggs, Doris Brown, Faith Brown, Marjorie Burnham, Bertha Flanders, Doris Frazier, Beatrice Grover, Bud Leavitt, Henry Robertson and Linda Westleigh.

On the ill or injured list were Grace Morrill, Ruth Bethel, Ivy Abraham, Ronald Stevens and Rudy Royer.

Bud and Mary Paine were celebrating their 52nd anniversary.

Following a delicious buffet lunch, Capt. James Miclon of the Sheriff's Department gave an interesting and informative talk on crime and problems relating to the elderly, and in many cases what to do about it. The presentation was well received.

The next meeting will be June 12. Watch the Community Calendar for location.

FROM THE

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

Many thanks to those members and friends who attended Monday's Business After Hours. It was great to get together.

We would like to clarify that we have changed the date of the Second Annual Great Duck Race to Mollycodd Day, with the start scheduled for 4 p.m. on the Sunday River at the Covered Bridge. We have nearly 25 great prizes to be given away to the "top ducks" as well as the last-placed duck. Many thanks to all those businesses who have given us prizes and to Meridith Otten who was the volunteer who coordinated the calling. Duck tickets are available for $5 from the chamber office, Preb's, Sunday River, the Bethel Inn and our board members. We also plan to have a booth on the common on Mollycodd Day.

The Marketing Committee has two meetings this week: one on Wednesday at 10 a.m. to plan for the Ski Shows and one on Friday at 10 a.m. to discuss a Bethel Area Video. Both meetings are scheduled for the Bethel Inn. Thanks to Marketing Committee members Bill Riley and Allen Connors for their coordination of this.

Friday at noon will find the Golf Tournament Committee of Art Marshall, Mark Mallory, Tom Richardson, Bob Laux, Bill Brown, Heinie Merrill, George Driscoll and Robin Zinchuk meeting at noon to put the finishing touches on the July 11 tournament plans. We would like to thank all those who are supporting this event. All sponsors and donors will get great visibility by participating in this. Anyone interested can come to the barbecue dinner and auction for $20 per person, which makes you eligible to win the two round-trip Delta Air Lines tickets anywhere in the Continental U.S. (This is a blind draw). You must R.S.V.P. by July 5 for this, so please call the office, 824-2282, or stop in.

We are still accepting entries of artists and fine craftspeople for the Sixth Annual Bethel Art Fair, to be held on Saturday, July 1. Please contact the office for an application if you are interested.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

"Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless his holy name."

The promises in Psalm 103 are overwhelming. This God, Davis says, "does not deal with us according to our sins," but forgives all our iniquity. This God redeems our life from the pit and crowns us with steadfast love and mercy.

For some of us, there are times when we're so overwhelmed by our failures that we seem indeed to be in a pit. (The footnotes in my Bible say this is a synonym for Sheol, the place of the dead where "people retain only the faintest semblance of life" NRSV). Can God really draw us up out of that place so low, we feel we'd just as soon be dead? Davis says so, can and does (see Psalm 30:3).

When we grasp the extent of that divine love and mercy, there is no part of our being that does not respond: The self-pitying part of us looks up: "Can you really love me, Lord?" The nit-picky part pauses in its compulsiveness: "And me?" The part that has just hurt another person -- with an inconsiderate remark or a physical outburst of pent-up rage -- turns and says: "Can you even forgive me, God?"

The answers in this Psalm are all "Yes."

What transformations such mercy and love could bring about. Accepted, anger might look for its source and work toward healing. Blessing God, how could inconsiderateness help but find ways to bless others as well? Forgiven, nit-picky could rise up enough to praise the Lord, it would find itself caught up in the vast chorus of souls singing "Halleluia."

No wonder the Psalmist cries out, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless his holy name."

To my parents and friends who helped to make the Snow White production come together, my sincere thanks. I couldn't do it without you.
